The wind blew across the open field. She pushed her model plane into the sky. It soared gracefully. The blue sky above skipped past. Then the plane gave a tiny judder. It wobbled in the sky. Then it crashed. Lizzie let out a gasp.

Example: The wind blew across the open field, rushing past Lizzie's face. Her eyes widened as she pushed her model plane into the sky. It soared gracefully, zipping through the air towards the end of the field, oblivious to the wind. The blue sky above skipped past as the plane continued to fly. Then, very suddenly, the plane gave it a tiny judder. It wobbled in the sky and then began its long descent to the ground. Lizzie let out a gasp as the plane met the ground with a thud.
